THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1887.

Gov. Hill's proposition to Georgia is a myth of the Indian.

Gen. Cameron will deliver his message to the Legislature today.

Chauncey M. Depew has been confirmed as Governor of Wyoming Territory.

Secretary Lamar has married patiently in Mrs. Bill of Mexia, Tex.

Vice President Hoyt's state public reception yesterday. Very few attended.

Attorney S. Mathews was inaugurated as Governor of Minnesota yesterday.

Alaska military preparations, said to be supported by Russia, are in progress in Montgomery.

Gladstone, Tex., wishes to repeal its charter to escape the payment of bonds amounting to $1,000,000.

The Council of the Prince Archiepiscopal has issued another circular denouncing O'Connor Pasha.

Judge Strayer of Wyandot, O. T., has been nominated to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota.

New regulations governing promotions in the railway service at New York City must be promulgated by the President yesterday.

The Parks special Labor Committee will hold a final meeting Friday and wind up its work. No legislation will be recommended.

Lieut. W. Berry, the North Carolina Congressman who disappeared from his State because of homicide troubles, has resigned his seat.

Senator Plumb made a long speech on the Inter-State Commerce bill yesterday. The Senate having taken up that conference report at 2 o'clock.

It is almost dark there was an input unanimity for defeating the objections of the Electric Commission from the powers of the elements, as was done.

Every branches of the Connecticut Legislature will meet in joint session today to elect three Judges. There is a Republican majority of thirty-four votes.

A bill has introduced in the Senate providing for the establishment of northern Dakota and agricultural experiment stations and farms in each of the several States.

A bill granting a pension of $1,000 a year to the widow of Gen. Logan was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Cullom, and was unanimously passed without objection by Mr. Coke.

Commissioner Sparks introduced a resolution in the House yesterday asking the President (Senate) to protect the rights of the United States in the Lake Front case.

Senator Plumb introduced a bill yesterday in the amount of United States bonds to be received of National banks, the text of which is given in the Washington dispatches.

It is the general belief in Washington that inasmuch as the President has no right to nominate Mr. Manning as Minister to Russia the appointment will be allowed to lapse.

Congressman L. Danks has sold to Bernard Corbin, for $30,000 Half cut on Van Buren street, 100 feet west of Clark. Mr. Corbin has sold the same for the same consideration to William Bailey.

The National Home Missions Committee meets today. The Democratic members will not be in attendance in the Rhode Island session of Pope against Five out of Eight against Bonds to Indians.

An appropriation bill for $50,000 to provide the United States World's Exposition, to be held in Birmingham, Ala., from Sept. 15, 1887, to Jan. 15, 1888, was introduced in the Senate yesterday.

The chances for the early passage of the Edmunds settlers' act concluded by the Senate it is understood have been greatly increased, a favorable report being produced from the Military Committee.

Senator Sherman introduced a bill yesterday to provide that all persons on the pay-rolls for the use of fish or lists shall be entitled to receive arrears of pension from the date of discharge or disability.

M. S. Quay has received the Republican caucus nomination in Pennsylvania for United States Senator. The Democratic legislators of Mercer both put forward William Henry Gilbert of Portland for the same position.

The Rivers Rivers and Harbors Committee has completed its River and Harbor Appropriation bill and it will be presented to the Senate this week. The grand total appropriated is $7,375,000, while the total of the estimates was $20,000,000.

A Pittsburgh man is to foreclosure in this city. The Water Works are contracting against one of the present bidders in Lake Michigan for a dozen years, preventing the proper working of the system. A residence regulation has been agreed upon.

The money market in this city was very strong, but in New York it was a little easier, starting with most easily. Investment securities kept good. The New York profit market was apparently quite and strong. The Chicago produce markets were steadier, but less active, and the general closing was low in the absence of the selling pressure until Tuesday. Cable advices to-day point lower prices on breadstuffs. As compared with Tuesday corn closed 1/2 cents higher, lard 2 cents higher, meats 10c cents higher, wheat 1/2 cents higher, oats and rye 1 cent lower, pork and barley steady, and flaxseed 1/2 cents higher.

A dispatch from Philadelphia reports that the Supreme Court of that State has just decided the Pennsylvania prohibitory Constitutional law to be unconstitutional. The result of this is that the mere holding of licenses issues in that State will subject the party to a criminal prosecution. Surely the Solons in Dover ought to be satisfied with this. The only question now remaining to be solved in connection with the matter is the exact time has proved such a power to repeal to wholly [illegible] prohibition practice?

In New York as in Chicago, the work of disorganization progresses among the Knights of Labor, owing to the efforts of the Secret-Arts Campaign to identify the order with their particular principals. As the New York Sunday Tribune says:

> The men who were only responsible servants of the people to see to the enforcement of the laws, and who are hereby violating the oath of office.

Since the only influence left to the [illegible] Anti-Poverty, who will probably lose his $5,000 a year.

At the anticipated, Gladstone thought it would not be wise to succeed John Lovegood Johnson, now vacant, against a Republican, Mr. John Armstrong, as assistant Treasurer, who is one of the trustees for Cornell University, is to be raised to the Treasury to make a vacancy for the new Navy record. Another vacancy proposed for the Cabinet is Lord Lansdowne, who has been always half a King. Richardson is out, Lord George Hamilton is the young man who had so much to do in bringing about Churchill's resignation. There are five Scottish brothers now in Parliament, and about 60 members of the family desiring public positions.

The New Law Review is authority for the statement that the Indian Government has determined upon swinging into line as a protection of the interests of its agricultural subjects by imposing a protective duty on the [illegible] of breadstuffs. The old duty is equal to about 8 cents per bushel, and was intended "for revenue only." The new one will be 7 1/2 per quintal, or about 21 cents per bushel. The direct result of the change will be only on the sale of wheat from Indian India, which has recently sent a great deal to Italy. But there can be no doubt that it will indirectly influence the supply of wheat to Europe from the United States, as it will increase the shortage of Indian wheat in the markets of London and Liverpool.

GREAT CATTLE VS. GRAIN RAISE

Some of our exchanges are indulging over the announcement that millions of bushels of corn have recently been turned for the establishment of a new stock yards in St. Louis. They say it must be looked upon in the light of a public beneficence, for the reason that it proposes to destroy the power of an already-formidable syndicate in Chicago and Kansas City. They charge in effect that the combination has been the means of depressing the prices of cattle-feed most within the last three years, and that the price of beef to the consumer is as high now, both here and at the East, as it was before the combination scheme was carried into practice.

It is pleasant to see St. Louis pacing to the assistance of a refinement of commercial science, if only as it suggests the old saying about the power of Archimedes and the chances of all saints being easily canonized. Some would criticise more harshly than The Tribune is we but take a hand in the business of feeding the world with meat and adding to right the silliness that are apt to creep in whenever one sets or one set of men admits the power to dictate what others shall do. But it is just possible the parties who are trying to find a reason for calling into being the new stock-yards are figuring on the wrong end of the account, in counting some of the offering and accepting them for the meat of cattle, which they do not belong.

The differences in the quality of cattle are so great that it is impossible to say how much many animals it declines in price with the same precision as in the case of bushelable. Thus it is understood that the selling value of the animal in two cents per pound less than a couple of years ago, the cause for such decline may as well rest with the diminished [illegible] The average price of wheat in this market was very little more than 70 cents for the whole of last year, against 90 cents for the two years next preceding, and $1.10 for the twenty-four months ending with 1885. The price of flour, and of nearly all kinds of merchandise, has been reduced in not far from the same proportion, though it was hardly to-half of any of them that the production has increased to as great a ratio as that of cattle on the recently opened-up ranges of the West. It is a fact which calls for no dispute that the offerings of cattle on this and other markets for a considerable time past has been largely in excess of the demand, and they have sold down, in consequence just as the cereals have done. The exceptions are still open to all classes of buyers, and it is not charged that the Armour beef men combine to force down prices as cheap as consignments of large lots of any, who are ready, with [illegible] to buy for the regular buyers to handle. It is safe to say that this fact would be a great part cause of if the consignors were to refuse the consignments are much would follow the appointment of their brethren, who handle such grain on the Board of Trade of the city. One of the latter meetings as many merchants of wheat are willing to sell $10 among parties, to at fancy different buyers, if to one country orders a better price than by the posting of the whole to a lump. Perhaps it would be found on investigation that the fault of low prices in such cases lies as much with the seller as consumers as it does with the buyer, who is naturally desirous to obtain the property as cheaply as possible. That is only "human nature."

It is not true that the use of beef in the consumer is the same now as two years ago. It is certainly a couple of cents per pound less to-day, and is believed to be even cheaper relatively to the fish. Probably it would be bought at retail for very much less but for the greed of the railroad companies in exacting about twice as much for carrying the dead carcass as for the same weight of live animal, and if the retailers were satisfied with a smaller profit. A pretty good piece of gratification could not be brought to-day at the packing-house door for Rock-Tipsy for about cents per pound; by and one who chooses to go down for it and ignore the middlemen, and there are a good many people who know that an average steer will not dress to much more than half of the weight when alive.

It is fair to presume that the "dressed beef" men are the most alert folks in business—buying as cheaply and selling for as much as possible. It may be that most of them, or all, obtain rebates from the railroad companies which are denied to the smaller operators, and that is one and other ways they have advantages which render it hard to compete with them. But there is neither sense nor use in seeking remonstrances for the purpose of holding up a man and surrounding with a fence, after the successful to establish a market in another city. It is legitimate enough for St. Louis to long and enjoy a vast [illegible] but the men who buy and sell there will be human beings, and will not from motives not more unselfish than those who buy and sell in Chicago. For the rest, it is to early to be excited. But the passage of the Cullom bill will put an end to favoritism and discrimination for and against persons or and or places. No measure that has been proposed for many years past has promised a bid as effectual in remedying conditions as does this, or more surely to promote the evil which accompanies that is to the city as does which. Meanwhile it may be well to remember that the railroad syndicate owns both the Eastern consumer of beef the seat of receiving the hides, horns, and offal in the neighborhood, whether the animal be killed there or not. No such necessity can put those parties against what is called the dressed-beef syndicate, and it is just possible that the latter is suffering the odium which the former deserves.

CHANGES THAN IN WALL STREET.

An observing the modern methods now being employed to locate capitalists in the United States Commerce bill, the following contrast from a circular issued by Green & Sherman, stock-brokers of Wall street, is in point:

> The prices and general sentiment of last week [illegible] of the [illegible] bill, and the [illegible] that the [illegible] would be [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
